

Adam Roberts

Branch Manager – Aylesbury

Meet Adam, your branch manager for Aylesbury

About me

Hi, I'm Adam and I am the Branch manager at Helping Hands in Aylesbury. This involves maintaining the daily running of the branch as well as its growth. I oversee the taking on and training of new carers as well as organising care packages for the customers.

I have lived within the area that my branch covers for my entire life which comes in handy from time to time when someone needs a little local knowledge.

Experience

I left school in 2011 and went to work in a couple primary schools in Buckinghamshire. I started as a teaching assistant, made some progress and finished 4 years later heading up the P.E department as well as working in the 'additional resource provision' with children with learning disabilities. I left that school and went to set up and manage the wrap around childcare provision in a village school near Bicester. That was my first taste of managerial experience and I thrived on the challenges that posed.

Every time I help in assisting somebody to come home from hospital by setting up a new care package for them is a really special moment for me. To see someone's eyes light up when they know they can come home, where they belong, really makes my job worth doing.

I am currently working towards my Level 5 QCF in Health and Social Care.

Why I chose Helping Hands

I chose Helping Hands when I first read about how they are still family run and uphold such fantastic standards and values. The care industry stood out to me as something I would want to be involved in when I realised just how important, rewarding and fulfilling it can be.

The services we provide is the reason I come to work in the morning. Every day I get to see the difference that our fantastic carers make the lives of the people who need our help. We, as a company, pride ourselves on no job being too simple and no job being too complicated, meaning we can cater for anybody's needs and make their lives just the little bit better with each carer visit.
