Meet Kirsty, Senior Live-in Care Manager for the East

About me

Hi, I'm Kirsty. As a Senior Live-in Care Manager, I am passionate about treating Carers and customers as individuals. I strive at all times to provide my Carers with as much support as possible, as they are at the centre of the exceptional services we provide.

Experience

After my father received palliative care due to throat cancer, my perspective on life changed. I decided that I no longer wanted to just work for a living; I wanted to make a difference. My father's wish was to return home and not die in a hospice. Sadly, at the time, I didn't realise that this was possible. Because of this experience, I am passionate about giving as many people as possible the opportunity to remain at home where they belong.

During my time as a Helping Hands Assistant Care Manager, I was responsible for supporting the Local Care Services Managers, Carers and customers. I really enjoyed this role and am proud to say that my hard work and commitment earned me a promotion to my current role of Local Care Services Manager.

Why I chose Helping Hands

Helping Hands was one of the companies I came across around the time my father was in the hospice. After he passed away, by chance, I saw they were advertising for the role of Assistant Care Manager. Before applying, I looked into the history of Helping Hands and really loved the fact that they are a family grown business with clear passion for excellent care services.

I am in awe of our carers! Their dedication and professionalism ensures that Helping Hands is consistently providing the best care possible and that its reputation as a leading home care provider is upheld.
